

Licence application with the Securities and Futures Commission

Service offering brochure: The licensing regime under the Securities and Futures Ordinance

Background

This publication provides an overview of the Securities and Futures Commission's ("SFC") licensing regime, key features of licensing requirements and major assessment criteria of the SFC for any corporation or person who wishes to apply for a licence to conduct regulated activities ("RAs") under the Securities and Futures Ordinance ("SFO") in Hong Kong.

I. The SFC licensing regime

Corporations which are not authorized institutions and are intended to conduct RAs in Hong Kong are required to be licensed as Licensed Corporations (“LCs”) under the SFO. The SFO empowers the SFC to supervise these regulated activities conducted by LCs.

Depending on the nature of the business, a corporation or a person may apply for one or more RA licences that suits its business activities. There are 10 different types of RAs under the SFO as set out below:

- Type 1: Dealing in securities
- Type 2: Dealing in futures contracts
- Type 3: Leveraged foreign exchange trading
- Type 4: Advising on securities
- Type 5: Advising on futures contracts
- Type 6: Advising on corporate finance
- Type 7: Providing automated trading services
- Type 8: Securities margin financing

- Type 9: Asset management
- Type 10: Providing credit rating services

The SFO requires an entity to obtain an RA licence if such entity carries on or holds itself out as carrying on any “regulated activities” in Hong Kong, or actively markets (whether by itself or another person on its behalf and whether in Hong Kong or outside Hong Kong) such services to the Hong Kong public.

Some notable exemptions (not exhaustive) from the licensing requirements are highlighted below:

- Dealing in securities on a proprietary basis
- Giving investment advice or providing asset management services to “wholly-owned” group companies
