

Announcement of new Director at Mazars in Hong Kong

3 January 2022, Hong Kong: Mazars in Hong Kong has appointed Star Chen as a director in the forensic and investigation team as of 3 January 2022. She brings almost 15 years of experience to the role and spent most of her career in leading accounting firms.

Having worked in Hong Kong, Beijing & the USA, Star brings a vast amount of experience as a technology focused investigator and eDiscovery leader with knowledge of local data security and privacy regulation for the Asia Pacific region. Additionally, she has experienced with the compliance function in fintech & banking industries.

Rupert Utley, who leads Mazars in Hong Kong fraud & investigation team, commented: “Star brings a depth of insight into the Hong Kong, China & Asia Pacific market which we are pleased to incorporate into our offering to clients in the region. Working across such a dynamic landscape gives her a unique perspective on business operations; from compliance and legal challenges to due diligence and KYC remediation. This experience will be invaluable to our forensic & investigation team, as we continue to help clients tackle the threat of economic crime.”

“Also, forensic services is one of our most rapidly developing service lines and as we look to expand upon our offering, we must continue to invest in our team. Star’s exceptional and wide-ranging experience blends everything from corporate transactions to litigation support. I have no doubt her track record will prove instrumental in driving our growth across Hong Kong locally and regionally.”

Star Chen concluded “Working across various cities was a career defining opportunity that has helped me better understand how to meet and exceed clients’ needs, particularly when operating across multiple jurisdictions and I am excited to join Mazars and bring my experience operating in the Asia Pacific region to Mazars’ clients.”
